Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View

Beware of icy conditions as wet and melted snow refreeze. Combined with strong to gale force winds, this will often give difficult walking conditions

Forecast for Wednesday 16 Mar 2022

Weather: Low cloud with some patchy rain and summit snow in the early hours. This should clear all ranges by dawn, although may linger across eastern hills for a few hours. Cloud then lifting and breaking to give an increasingly sunny day. Clear skies through the evening.

Maximum wind: West 10 mph, becoming Southwest 15 gusting 25 mph late evening.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 90%

Low Cloud and visibility: Very good once any low cloud lifts. Cloud initially around 700-800m, but lifting above the summits most likely by dawn, then hills cloud free through the day. A slight chance cloud could be a few hours slower to clear.

Temperature: Glens: Plus 4 Celsius rising to 6 Celsius
At 800m: Around zero Celsius, falling to minus 4 Celsius in the evening.
Freezing level: Around 1000m, dropping to 800m by dawn, then 400-500m in the evening.
